Greenbelters Share In Celebrating 30th Labor Day Festival Activities

by Leta Mach

The big story in Greenbelt this weekend, as it has been every Labor Day weekend for the past 30 years, is the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival. Once again Greenbelters can enjoy a last summer fling right in the center of old Greenbelt at the upper parking lot beside the Municipal Building. Other than a flea market, an information time, a luncheon, and some new athletic contests, most activities will have that familiar ring.

Opening Ceremonies for the Festival are at 6:30 p.m. Friday, August 31. They feature a concert by the Greenbelt Concert Band, the introduction of city officials and the Festival Committee, the announcement of Greenbelt's Outstanding Citizen of 1984 and a drawing for free ride tickets. Other events of the first day include athletic contests, a scoreboard dedication in the memory of David Craig, the opening of the carnival midway, the presentation of Miss Greenbelt contestants and music of the 50's and 60's by The Fabulous Hubcaps.

New Events

Perhaps inspired by the Olympic, the Greenbelt Recreation Department is offering several new athletic events this year. On Saturday gymnastics competition will be held in trampoline, balance beam and floor exercise. Running races will be held on Sunday. From 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, a volleyball court will be set up on Braden Field for free play. The Recreation Department will also sponsor familiar events such as table games, horseshoe, golf, tennis and softball tournaments.

Two special events are scheduled for Sunday. From 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. the Roosevelt Raiders Football Club will hold a flea market and craft show on the Center School/Library lawn. Information tables will be set up at the grass area near Suburban Bank from noon to 5 p.m. This will give community groups a chance to tell fair-goers about their activities.

The Greenbelt Community Church will sponsor an activity at the Festival this year. They will offer a luncheon on the lawn of the church after the parade Monday.

Midway

The Carnival Midway will be open from 6-11 p.m. on Friday, 1-11 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday and after the Parade on Monday. Rides to excite all ages will be available each day except during a dinner break from 5-7 p.m. Dedicated riders can enjoy unlimited rides for one low price on Saturday and Sunday from 1-5 p.m.

Booths this year will again feature food, games, crafts and items for sale. Popular activities include children's crafts, bean bag toss, zoo dip, traffic game, ring toss, voter quiz, trivia quiz, bingo, tic-tac-toe and big six wheel Items for sale include T-shirts, buttons, calendars, posters, flags, used books and balloons. One unusual and helpful booth activity is the ident-a-kid program. Food to suit everyone's taste will be available each day (see ad in this paper).

Stage Events

Many outstanding and well-known acts will appear on the Festival stage. One well-known performer is Christian the Magician. Nostalgia of the 50's and 60's will be represented by the music of The Fabulous Hubcaps and the J.B. Chance Band. The New West Band will play country and western music. The Kangaroo Kids will demonstrate precision jump rope and Leaps and Bounds will show off their aerobic dance and jazz routines. Favorites from past years, Ralph Case Squaredancers, Guys and Dolls Cloggers, the Bob Brown Puppets, Town Clowns and singers Irish Hirsh and Diane Perry will be back.

A local group, the Pop-A-Zoids, will demonstrate the newest craze — breakdancing. The group consists of Greenbelters Chris Allen, Bell Fehr, John McClure, Jon Walker and Chiz Fonseca and Kimberly Stokes of Mitchellville. The group has performed at a National Capital Area Big Brothers gala, for Saturday Morning at the National and Wild World. In a competition at Gallaudet College they placed second in a field of 10.

WLMD from Laurel will again do a live remote on Saturday afternoon. The station will be conducting interviews and giving away prizes and T-shirts.

Miss Greenbelt Pageant

Fifteen lovely girls will be contestants in the Miss Greenbelt Pageant. On Saturday evening, the contestants will present a talent show. The climax of the Pageant is Sunday evening when the new Miss Greenbelt is crowned.

Salute to Workers

The annual Salute to Americans at Work will be held Monday afternoon. At least 10 organizations and individuals have volunteered to demonstrate crafts and trades in special remembrance of the holiday. The Restaurant Workers Race will not be run this year.

Children's Events

The children's Pet Show will be on Saturday, September 4. Registration begins at 10 a.m. in the Center School/Library grass area. Dogs must have proof of rabies shots and must be leashed. There will be prizes for the handsomest, most unusual, funniest, most talented, etc.

Special Contests for children and also adults offer many old favorites — diaper derby, sack race, dress-up relay — and some new events — water balloon toss, and watermelon eating.

The Recreation Department will sponsor the seventh annual big wheels roadcross on Saturday morning.

Exhibitions & Shows

The Photo Exhibition and Competition is returning this year. Photographers will have their works on display Saturday, Sunday and Monday in the Utopia Theater lobby.

Artists of all ages will display an endless variety of works in the annual Art Show at the Municipal Building. Art Show awards on Saturday evening will include an award for the work best demonstrating the theme "Americans at Work." An award will also be given to the "Community Favorite" determined by the votes of those visiting the Art Show.

Parade

Civic groups, invited dignitaries, majorettes, bands, floats, clowns, fire engines, antique cars and more will pass by the Parade reviewing stand on Monday morning. Scott Woodside of Q107 will be the Grand Marshall and the Outstanding Citizen of 1984 will be the Grand Parade Marshall. The irrepressible Greenbelt Marching Kazoo Band will make its annual appearance and the Greenbelt Lions Club will again sponsor the decorated bike and trike contest for Greenbelt children.

The weekend should be a perfect opportunity for Greenbelters to carry out the Festival's theme of "Unity through Community Involvement."

Bulletin

The Greenbelt Homes, Inc. Board of Directors has selected Ronald G. Colton of Lakecrest Drive in Greenbelt as the next General Manager of GHI. He will start the third week of September.

Bus Stops Added

Due to marginal distance and safety concerns the school system is sending buses into Greenbelt for those Eleanor Roosevelt high school students living adjacent to the following bus stops. Bus #413 will stop at 9 a.m. at Lakecrest and Lakeside. After school these students will take bus #443. Bus #444 will stop at Lastner and Ivy at 9 a.m. and at Ridge and Ivy at 9:02. After school students from Lastner and Ivy will take bus #435 and those from Ridge and Ivy, bus #401.

GO-AHEAD GIVEN FOR MARTIN'S; FALL GROUND-BREAKING PLANNED

by Elaine Skolnik

The long-awaited groundbreaking for Martin's Inc., the Greenbelt convention/banquet/conference center, will occur this fall. Financing for the project has been obtained and a revised site plan recently approved by the Prince Georges County Planning Board.

The one and a half story facility will be constructed on 8.5 acres of the 41-acre Maryland Trade Center (MTC) Park, between MTC Building II and the Holiday Inn. MTC is located behind the Greenway Shopping Center at the interchange of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway and the Beltway.

Original site plans for Martin's called for a 59,339 square-foot banquet center with a capacity of 2,000 persons. The revised site plan, however, shows a scaled-down building — 40,665 square feet being now planned, with a total occupancy of 1,400 persons. The facility has the capability for later expansion.

"The reduction made it more attractive for the lender," explained Preston Greene, Martin's vice-president of finance. Since the building has a single purpose, the lender preferred that the banquet center build a good track record before increasing its operation. Martin's six banquet centers in the Baltimore area have demonstrated "a history of success," observed Greene.

Complexities involved in financing the facility had delayed start of construction. After looking into both state and county possibilities for assistance with funding, Martin's finally settled on private financing. According to Greene, opening of construction bids and acquiring of building permits should be accomplished soon. The site has already been cleared, graded and seeded; developers expect the building to be complete within nine to twelve months.

In approving the revised site plan, the Planning Board accepted staff recommendations, which included those of the Greenbelt City Council and the city's Advisory Planning Board. Any plans for future expansion of the banquet center, or for a free-standing sign, must be referred to the city for review and comment. Two portions of sidewalk in the northeast corner of the parcel must also be added to facilitate pedestrian access to and from MTC Building II and the proposed plaza for the third office building and Greenway Center Drive.

According to the staff of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, parking spaces and landscaping exceed County Code requirements. Martin's operating hours occur mostly at night and on weekends — off-peak hours.

Building Design

Materials to be used in the rectangular building include Italian blue veined marble, bronzed glass, beige bricks and a masonry white-beige coating system. Martin's logo — the blue champagne glass — will adorn the building. A canopy supported by pillars will extend from the formal entrance and overhang a circular driveway. Plans also include extensive landscaping and a fountain.

Catering to groups from 25 to 1,400 persons will be possible through the use of hydraulic walls that allow the main ballroom to be divided into smaller rooms. In this way the facility can be used for many different purposes — seminars, trade shows, meetings, weddings, family and private social functions and fund raisers.

Initially Martin's plans to employ 153 persons.

Free Transportation Set For Labor Day Festival

For the eighth consecutive year, free transportation is available for the Labor Day Festival. This year two services are being offered — a dial-a-ride and a park-and-ride.

By calling the Festival information number (474-1518) Greenbelters can arrange to be picked up anywhere within the city limits and driven to the Festival. The service will be available from 7:15-10:30 p.m. on Friday, from 1-10:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday and from 1-6 p.m. on Monday. In addition, rides to the parade are available for those who make arrangements before Monday morning. By going to the Festival information booth, people can also arrange a ride home.

The park-and-ride service will operate from the Greenbelt Armory. Individuals who leave their car at the Armory will be picked up there and returned there at regular times. Friday pickups are 7:15, 8 and 9 p.m.; the last return trip will be at 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday pickups are at 6, 7 and 8 p.m.; the last return trip will be at 10 p.m. Monday pickups are at 9:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.; the last return trip will be at 6 p.m.

The Festival committee is grateful to the Greenbelt Woman's Club for answering the information phone and Capitol Cadillac for lending its van for this service.

Police Booth to Feature Ident-A-Kid Service

The Greenbelt Police Department will offer a special service — Operation Ident-A-Kid — at their booth at the Labor Day Festival. The service is to be used in case a child ever runs away from home or otherwise is missing.

The service involves making fingerprints and recording information about the child. The Police Department will make the fingerprints and give them to the parents along with a blank information form. The parents should fill out the form which will provide useful information to locate and identify a child if necessary.

No records or fingerprints are kept by the police. This information is collected solely for the benefit of the parents and it is their responsibility to keep the records in a safe place.

Refuse Collection

Because of the Labor Day Holiday, Monday, September 3, 1984 the city refuse collection schedule will be as follows: NO COLLECTION MONDAY. Monday's route will be picked up Tuesday. Tuesday's route will be picked up Wednesday. NO PAPER PICK UP ON WEDNESDAY. Thursday and Friday routes will be on regular schedule.

Utopia's Theatre Season To Open with Butterflies

by Eileen Peterson

The Greenbelt Players open their 1984-85 season on September 7 at 8:15 p.m. with a four-week run of the Leonard Gershe comedy, "Butterflies Are Free," directed by Robert Rotenberry.

Scheduled for Friday and Saturday nights through September 29, with a Sunday matinee on September 23 at 2:30 p.m., the drama has been described by the New York Post as "quietly moving . . . fine comic sense . . . warm and touching."

With Ray Turner as the blind young man, Marie Tournant as the overprotective mother, and Lori Hopson Paul as the pretty actress next door, the story blends humor, courage and frustration and comes out with—no, we won't give away the ending.

The Greenbelt Players will present five plays this season. Two one-act plays begin November 16, and auditions will be held for these on September 17 and 18 at the Utopia Theater. Besides principal players, extras are needed as well as technical crew. Anyone who is interested should call 441-1033 or the theater.

The second Friday performance of each play run will be signed for the hearing impaired.

The Greenbelt Cultural Arts Center is offering a five-plays-for-the-price-of-four season subscription as well as an additional discount to Arts Center members. For details, call 474-7763. Group rates are also available for the plays.

Malicious

To the Editor:

In the 2nd week of May, after much planning and organizing by the Greenbelt Garden Club my daughter Dotty, husband Jim and myself were assigned a plot of plowed land near the B-W Parkway overpass for a garden. We planned our crop placement, took time off our jobs and set to work. We purchased and put up a fence on part of the plot to protect those plants most favored by rabbits and deer. We hauled mulch from Northway and after working it into each hole, meticulously set out plants which we raised ourselves. To ensure that our transplants survived and thrived we hauled and used many gallons of water into which we added fertilizer.

After several setbacks caused by the weather, things began to take hold and grow. We planted about 8 varieties of vegetables, staked and attached plastic tubing for 36 tomato plants, staked and strung wire and string to support lima beans and in mid-season refertilized everything for maximum production. We also sprayed for insects once a week.

We worked several hours each day after work and on week-ends and finally began to reap some of the results of our hard labor in early July. The limas were just filling out nicely as we planted some fall crops about 10 days ago. Then Saturday evening, August 25, my daughter went over to get some produce to take on vacation, and a totally wrecked garden greeted her. The fence posts had been broken off and the fence leveled, the lima supports had been broken off and pulled out with the plants still attached and the corn was broken off mid-stalk. The tomato stakes were broken off, the plants pulled apart, those left were shaken bare and there was fruit crushed everywhere. New broccoli plants and herbs were beaten down and the remainder was trampled. About 30 newly filled water jugs were thrown about and broken. We are doing our best to salvage and put what is left back together but it is still a mess and will produce very little more for us. After all our time and effort spent we are heartsick over it, as are the others who were hit. Dotty called the police but they said there was nothing they could do. . . . the overpass was built last year from Greenbriar to Greenbelt proper for the pleasure and convenience of the kids. As this path passes right by the gardens, it gives ample opportunity for such acts as this. This was more than vandalism—the extent to which this was carried out was sick, meaningless and malicious destruction of prop-

David A. Stamler

David A. Stamler, father of Mrs. Marjorie Bergemann of Lakeside Drive, passed away Tuesday, August 28, at the Greenbelt Nursing Home. He was 90 years old.

Born in Buffalo, N.Y., Mr. Stamler grew up in Brooklyn, N.Y., and served in the U.S. Navy in both World Wars. In civilian life he worked for 35 years as salesman for the pharmaceutical firm of Eli Lilly, and earned billing as its top salesman in the 1920s. He also was an active Mason, rising to the 32nd degree in the Scottish Rite.

Widowed from Anna Bloch Stamler, he lived many years in retirement in Lakeland, Florida. He is survived by four children—Mrs. Bergemann; Dr. Arthur Stamler of Tuscaloosa, Alabama; Martin Stamler of Somersville, Ohio; and Betty Sue Spellman of Roslyn, N.Y. He also leaves behind 23 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren. The funeral was held today at the Arlington National Cemetery.

The family has requested that in lieu of flowers donations in David Stamler's memory be addressed to the American Cancer Society or to Congregation Mishkan Torah of Greenbelt.

THANKS

To the Editor:

Thank you very much for mentioning me in the article "Greenbelters Win Awards at ERHS Convocation". I was flattered to see my name in print. However, I must correct one point. The article stated that the Eleanor Roosevelt math team finished 3rd overall in county competition. Actually, the top four teams in the county were all composed of Eleanor Roosevelt students. Bowie High School's 'A' team, composed of Bowie's top five scorers, finished fifth after the four top Roosevelt teams. I finished third overall in individual competition surpassed by (of course) two other Roosevelt students.

Several other Greenbelters were among high scorers for Roosevelt. Eric Hirschmann, of Lakeside Drive, Eddie Belisle, of Empire Place, Jun Mo Hong, of Mandan Road and Manoranjan Tayal of Springhill Lake all scored high enough in individual competition to represent Prince Georges County in national competition.

FLAG WAVING AT THE FESTIVAL

by Sandra Barnes

Opportunities to wave a Greenbelt flag will be available for the first time as the 50th Anniversary Committee will be selling miniature flags at its booth at the Labor Day Festival. If flag waving is not enough for the truly die-hard Greenbelter, a chance to test one's knowledge of Greenbelt history by playing the Greenbelt Trivia game. By answering three consecutive questions correctly, players will win a button which proclaims him or her to be a "Greenbelt Expert".

Members of the anniversary committee will be in the booth to talk to people about future plans for the celebration in 1987. Assisting the committee will be members of Greenbelt's Boy Scout Troop 1746 who will not only be donating their time but also working on merit badges through the booth activity.

The committee has selected a logo with pine trees in the background. The logo will be displayed on the booth sign, the button and on all anniversary brochure available at the festival.

In another development, Mayor Gil Weidenfeld received a letter from the Village of Greenhills, Ohio, one of Greenbelt's sister cities, expressing their enthusiasm for a joint celebration to mark the 50th anniversary of the greenbelt towns. The third city in the trio is Greendale, Wisconsin.

Governor's Awards Close September 15

The Governor's Awards Program, an art, literature and crafts competition, is sponsored by the Maryland Heritage Committee in celebration of the state's 350th Anniversary. School and pupil entries poured in early since the institutional phase of the program ended with the closing of the school year. But the deadline's still ahead for individual adult participation. Literary, fine arts and crafts entries must be submitted by September 15.

Cash prizes of $1,000 each will be awarded for a novel or short story, a monograph on the history of 17th Century Maryland and a collection of up to five poems. $500 prizes will be given for a scholarly article on the history of Maryland and an article in a newspaper or nonprofessional journal. $1,000 will be awarded for the best fine arts and crafts entries, respectively.

All awards, including two honorable mentions in each category, "will recognize outstanding literary and artistic ability among today's Marylanders who best capture the values, motivations and achievements of the first settlers."

A brochure with complete details can be obtained by calling (301) 889-5150.

Weidenfeld wrote to the mayors of the two cities to gain their interest and support.

Jerry Gough's "Little Avocation"

by Corinne Comulada

"Acting is a strange business. In theatre, the actor has a lot of control over the play's action. Most actors prefer to do stage plays for that reason; there is also more time to learn dialogue and polish performances. In film and television, it's an editor's medium." The speaker should know. He is Greenbelt's own Jerry Gough — former High Point High School history teacher, former city councilman, and now Government Relations Officer for the state of Maryland with the METRO system. But on the side he keeps on acting.

Born in Fon-du-Lac, Wisconsin, Gerald Francis Gough began acting in elementary school. He played Ebenezer Scrooge in "A Christmas Carol" while in junior high. At the University of Maryland he majored in speech and drama. He did a lot of theatre, including O'Neill's "Long Voyage Home," and "Romeo and Juliet." He worked at the Hilltop Parkway Theatre, a Baltimore-based equity company, whose productions included "Stalag 17" and "Mr. Roberts." After graduation, a season of winter stock at Erie Playhouse in Erie, Pa., was followed by summer stock at Tower Ranch Theatre in Rhineland, Wisconsin. In New York, he studied with actress Uta Hagen.

He met his wife, Kathrine, playing love scenes with her in "Picnic." In addition to acting he worked as a stagehand at Radio City Music Hall "to keep body and soul together." Shortly after their marriage, the Goughs decided to move to Maryland to finish school and, after doing more stagehand work, he got his teaching job at High Point, where for the next nine years he taught history, geography, and Problems of Democracy.

But during that time he maintained some theatrical contacts, one of these being Bob Milli, who played roles in long-running daytime TV serials. Milli frequently notified Gough of movie bit parts, which helped to bring in extra money.

While at High Point, Gough helped write the Problems of Democracy course curriculum. Surprisingly, this too led to an acting job when his supervisor informed him that the National Education Association was looking for a teacher to represent the organization on a national program, "The Great Adventure." This program, which was televised in 1963-64, depicted little-known historic events. Gough flew to California once a month to shoot one-minute segments of the hour-long prime-time movie.

After completing "The Great Adventure," Gough got his Screen Actors Guild card. But he took an honorary withdrawal from the Guild and continued teaching. During the 1960's he became active in politics, being involved in charter campaigns in 1964, working for Carlton Sickles in 1966, and serving as mayor pro tem on the Greenbelt City Council in 1967-69.

In 1968 Gough was offered the position with the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority as Government Relations Officer. He has been with METRO ever since. When time permitted, though, Gough continued to act. In 1967, for instance, he played Pablo Gonzales in "Streetcar Named Desire" at the Olney Theatre.

Film Career

Then six years ago a friend suggested Gough update his resume and contact an agent. After that he got small parts, alternating between such "deathless epics" as "Raise the Titanic," in which he played a reporter, and "Death in Ocean View Park." His role there as Commander Harry McNeil was caught by alert Greenbelters, who enjoyed his one-minute scene with Martin Landau and Caroline McWilliams.

In addition to television and movies, Gough has made several private-industry films for NASA, BNA, NUS, and Westinghouse. In one production, he says, he memorized 20-minute script speeches, labeling this "absolute agony."

In the movie "Reds" Gough played a United States government agent who followed Diane Keaton through Washington, D.C., New York and Los Angeles. He recalls that the movie took 2½ years to make and cost around $50,000,000. It included shooting in two continents. One scene, made on the Washington, D.C. Ellipse on a bitterly cold December day, required salt to be sprinkled on icy steps so that the actors and other cast members wouldn't fall. More than once the person who sprinkled the salt was the director himself, Warren Beatty.

Gough describes Beatty as a very good director, who was thoughtful and helpful. During the filming Beatty had an instant replay mechanism hooked up with the film camera; he didn't stop making a particular scene until he got exactly what he wanted.

Gough's most recent role, that of Alabama Governor John Patterson, to whom he bears an "uncanny resemblance," was in the highly-acclaimed mini-series, "Kennedy," which starred Martin Sheen and Blair Brown. Gough's scenes required driving to Richmond, Virginia and completing work in a short two hours.

Gough recalls his days as an extra, in which he was part of a "cast of thousands" as some of the best days (and joke-telling sessions) he has ever had. He has two agents who enable him to find work.

Although he loves acting, which he terms a "little avocation," Gough would never leave Metro. As Government Relations Officer for Maryland, he has a lot of work to do yet. The two remaining segments of the Green Line in northern and southern Prince Georges County, for example, are still to be constructed, as well as the "B" route into Glenmont. He looks on this work as very important, as well as the remaining portions of the Metro system in Virginia. Gough wants to see all 101 miles of the system finished.

Acting is part of his life, but not his whole life. "Teaching and Metro are my real work and my real career," he says. His family, which include his wife of 25 years, Kathrine, and four children—Maureen, 24; Michael, 22; Sally, 20; and James, 14—enjoy his movies, but they don't always watch. When his children were younger, Gough recalls that they often switched the "Great Adventure" over to the circus.

Everyone Welcome

"Unity Through Community Involvement," the theme of the Labor Day Festival, describes a weekend when all Greenbelters can come together, both in volunteer work and for entertainment. Founded thirty years ago, the Festival has traditionally given Greenbelt organizations an opportunity to earn money and show off their activities. The Festival is a non-profit organization directed by a Steering Committee elected yearly. It receives its operating expenses from donations of local businessmen and from a percentage of the profits from booths and carnival rides. All Greenbelt residents and organizations are invited to participate in the planning and activities of the Festival.

Council Waits Till September To Discuss Open-Space Funds

by Mary Lou Williamson

Some of the news of the last council meeting, on August 13, was what didn't happen. Council postponed action on two items, in one case so that all members of council could be present for discussion and in the second case so that citizens could offer input. To be taken up at the next council meeting in September will be the decision on which project to fund with the city's share of open space monies — $45,000.

Of the eight possible projects listed for council's consideration, the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board (PRAB) recommended improvements to Attick Park, a combination picnic shelter and comfort station, with land acquisition a second priority. The city Staff recommended spending funds either for North End School or Attick Park, although they noted several other interesting projects: bicycle path construction, parks maintenance building and Youth Center addition. Northway ball-field lights and a new band stand and improved concession stand are also on the list. In the manager's agenda notes, James K. Giese makes note of the requirement of $15,000 in matching funds from the city if a development project is selected. No match is required with land acquisition.

Mayor Gil Weidenfeld's proposal to move the city election date from the third Tuesday in September to the third Tuesday in October was delayed at council-member Richard Pilski's request. "As a courtesy to Mr. White," he said. (Council member Thomas X. White was not present at the meeting.) Pilski wanted all five members of council present for the initial discussion. Even Weidenfeld's effort to start the process by sending the proposal to the election board for comment was scuttled by Pilski, who said, "That assumes a decision to go ahead." Councilmember Toni Bram objected to the postponement saying, "If you miss a (council) meeting, you take the consequences."

In other actions, council — approved a new carrier, Guardian Life Insurance, for the $10,000 per person life insurance coverage for city employees. The cost, at 39c per $1,000 of cover-— agreed to support US House of Representatives Bill HR-4103, the current compromise legislation on cable TV regulation as requested by the National League of Cities. NCTA, the National Cable TV Association, has recently dropped its support of the bill in favor of deregulation. Last February the city had opposed an earlier version of HR 4103.

CONSIDERING A CHANGE IN RESIDENCE?

There are three key elements to consider:

- A) Your needs: things you positively have to have.
- B) Your wants: things you'd like to have, but don't necessarily need.
- C) Your qualifications:
 - 1) Your initial investment (cash to move in)
 - 2) Your total income (gross yearly income)
 - 3) Your debt service (total indebtedness)

I would like the opportunity to discuss with you how we can combine these three factors to assist you and your family in achieving your housing goals both within Greenbelt and the metropolitan area - of course with no obligation.

Greenbelt Grab Bag

by Punchin' Judy

Long, long ago, twenty or thirty years, maybe, it was only one's kids that talked back. Then their toys started to do the same thing. First it was the dolls; you pulled a string and a voice from the little plastic belly made a comment. Usually it was a pleasant enough observation, like "I love you, Mommy." Sometimes the tone was more demanding: "Take me for a walk!"

After a while other toys got into the act. There were model farms in which the animals mooed and brayed and baahd and barked and whinnied. Little garages did their thing and so, later, did little space stations.

Then came the telephone answering devices. They tell you more, sometimes, about the people or firm you are calling than you want to know, and with a beep they invite you to do the same. Sometimes their message is so long, you wonder, "Where's the beep?" The telephone company isn't much better. You dial a number and a robot comes on to tell you, "The number you have called," etc. Sometimes the number they recite isn't even the one you dialed, but there's no one but the robot to tell it to, and it doesn't listen, just talks. Reminds you of your kids again, does it?

But all this is old stuff. Now we have appliances that chatter. "Time to refill the ice cube trays," says the refrigerator. "Add the soap now," insists the washer. "There is not enough light for this picture," warns the camera, and you get the distinct feeling it wants to add the word "Dummy."

The examples go on and on. The worst the pin-ball machines ever said was "Tilt," but the video games screech and mock and, worst of all, laugh at you.

Automobiles used to buzz when you didn't fasten your seat belts. Later on they changed to a bell-like sound, possibly to make you think, "Ask not for whom the bell tolls—it tolls for thee." But now thee wilt have no problem getting the answer. A pleasant but authoritative voice gives you to understand that there will be no nonsense about the seatbelts or anything else. And by the way, you'd better change your oil.

You might think that these voices wouldn't follow you into a nice quiet library. Wrong again, innocent one. Just approach the copy maker and you will hear, "Check your paper size." The funny thing is that nobody says "shh!" No doubt there'll be a machine for that real soon.

The business computers and the home computers, of course, are the worst offenders. I don't know why they call them user-friendly. They talk among themselves, moreover, usually in languages the names of which I can't even spell. When I was little I was told that it wasn't polite to do that.

Actually there was a whole lot more I wanted to say on the subject, but my typewriter just told me that it is going on strike for better working conditions, so I'll have to stop now.

Packaged amount too large for you?

If the packaged amount of meat or produce is too large for you, it may be possible for a staff person to divide it for you. They will try to accommodate you if they can. However, it's not possible evenings and Sundays with meat, since no meat department employees work then.
